FINAL PAVING ON I-293 WESTBOUND IN MANCHESTER
TWO MILES FROM THE I-93 SPLIT TO THE MERRIMACK RIVER BRIDGE

The New Hampshire Department of Transportation announces final paving work is expected to take place the week of September 19, 2005 on two miles of Interstate 293 westbound from the I-93 split to the Merrimack River Bridge in Manchester.

This work will require lane closures and some traffic delays. Uniformed officers will assist motorists through the work zone.

Work on the I-293 bridge over Mammoth Road was completed and the bridge was opened to its full width this week.

Continental Paving, of Londonderry, New Hampshire is the contractor for the road reconstruction project, which is expected to be completed within a month.
